

Discipleship Reading Plan 1

Overview of the Bible

Taking the Gospel to Heart, to Annapolis, and to the World

Why Read Scripture?

Each of us are called to be a follower of Jesus, to trust him, obey Him and live like Him. But how can we do that, unless we hear from Him? The Discipleship Reading Plan is designed to help us to read the Bible because it is the Word of God and in it we see how to live out our calling of following Jesus. As we read, we pray that the Spirit of God will help us understand and obey. Then we share with one another what we are learning and how we are being challenged, so we can encourage and pray for each other as well. As we begin this 10-week journey, share with your partner one way you hope to see the Word of God and the Spirit of God change you in these 10 weeks.

What am I Reading?

The Bible is an incredible book, written by dozens of people over thousands of years, all telling one story of God's love for His people. In each plan you will be reading from several books of the Bible. Here is an overview of the types of books in the Bible.

Old Testament History - The first 17 books of the Bible (Genesis-Esther) tell the story of how God created the world and his interaction with his people specifically the nation of Israel. These books mostly tell us what happened.

Old Testament Writings - The middle 5 books (Job-Song of Solomon) tell us how people responded to what was happening. These books include prayers, songs, and "wise sayings" from the people.

Old Testament Prophecy - The final 17 books (Isaiah-Malachi) tell us God's comments on what was happening with his people. These words were delivered through prophets and tell of God's justice, and His mercy, and they often make promises about what God will do in the future.

New Testament History - The first 5 books of the New Testament (Matthew-Acts) are also histories. The first four are called Gospels and they tell the story of Jesus' life and ministry. The book of Acts tells us the story of how the early church formed and spread.

New Testament Letters - The middle 23 books (Romans-Jude) are letters written by leaders/teachers to churches and individuals to provide encouragement, instruction, and correction. These books are particularly helpful in learning what Christians believe and how they should live.

New Testament Prophecy - The final book of the Bible (Revelation) tells us about things still yet to come. It is also called "apocalyptic literature", because it is talking about the end of the world and how Jesus will return and make all things new.

Because each book is different and was written with a unique purpose, it can be helpful to have an overview before you begin. We recommend the Bible Project videos on each book. You can find them at: <https://bibleproject.com/explore/book-overviews/>

What Translation should I use?

There are so many good translations to choose from. Choose one that helps you read and understand. If you are new to reading the Bible, you might find The Message or the New Living Bible helpful. We also recommend the ESV as this is the one we use in our services each week.

What if reading isn't best for me?

For those who struggle with read, we suggest listening to Scripture. What is most important is that you are getting time with God's Word. You can listen online at www.bible.com or download The Bible App Free + Audio on your phone.

Why are there only 6 readings a week?

Many people will choose to not read on Sundays or on the day they are meeting with their partner. We also know that we all sometimes miss a day, and having a "grace-day" each week helps us not fall behind.

Getting the most out of your reading

While reading the Bible is good, sometimes we all need a little guidance to get the most out of our time. The most important thing we can do is make sure we are praying while reading. We aren't just reading to say we did it, we want to hear from God, so ask Him to speak to you, and after reading talk to Him some more about how you are going to live in light of what you've read. Here are some suggested questions to ask after you've read the passage:

- What is happening in the passage? (who, what, when, why, how)
- What did you like about this passage? What did you find challenging in it?
- What does this passage tell you about God? (Consider how you see the Father, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit)
- What does this passage tell you about people/yourself?
- In light of this passage, what might the Spirit be calling you to do? Who is the Spirit calling you to share this with?

A guide for meeting with your partner

We meet together to share what we are learning, but also how we are struggling. Our goal is to help one another through the Gospel. Challenge one another, but also encourage one another, and definitely pray for one another.

Pray - Ask that God would use your time to bring encouragement to you both.

Looking Back - Share with one another about this last week. How did your commitments go? In what ways do you need encouragement? Praise God together for His faithfulness.

Looking Up - In light of what you read this week, what have you been learning about God? What new truths are you discovering? What promises are bringing you comfort?

Looking In - In light of what you read this week, what have you been learning about yourself? What lies are you uncovering? What encouragement have you been seeing? Challenge each other to go deeper as necessary!

Looking Forward - In light of what you read this week, how is God calling you to obedience? Who is God calling you to share His truth with? Commit to these things! Challenge one another to boldly follow Jesus.

Pray - Pray for each other, that you would follow Jesus more closely, and that He would help you as you seek to keep these commitments in the week ahead.

Old Testament History - The first 17 books of the Bible (Genesis-Esther) tell the story of how God created the world and his interaction with his people specifically the nation of Israel. These books mostly tell us what happened.

Old Testament Writings - The middle 5 books (Job-Song of Solomon) tell us how people responded to what was happening. These books include prayers, songs, and "wise sayings" from the people.

Old Testament Prophecy - The final 17 books (Isaiah-Malachi) tell us God's comments on what was happening with his people. These words were delivered through prophets and tell of God's justice, and His mercy, and they often make promises about what God will do in the future.

New Testament History - The first 5 books of the New Testament (Matthew-Acts) are also histories. The first four are called Gospels and they tell the story of Jesus' life and ministry. The book of Acts tells us the story of how the early church formed and spread.

New Testament Letters - The middle 23 books (Romans-Jude) are letters written by leaders/teachers to churches and individuals to provide encouragement, instruction, and correction. These books are particularly helpful in learning what Christians believe and how they should live.

New Testament Prophecy - The final book of the Bible (Revelation) tells us about things still yet to come. It is also called "apocalyptic literature", because it is talking about the end of the world and how Jesus will return and make all things new.

Because each book is different and was written with a unique purpose, it can be helpful to have an overview before you begin. We recommend the Bible Project videos on each book. You can find them at: <https://bibleproject.com/explore/book-overviews/>

What Translation should I use?

There are so many good translations to choose from. Choose one that helps you read and understand. If you are new to reading the Bible, you might find The Message or the New Living Bible helpful. We also recommend the ESV as this is the one we use in our services each week.

What if reading isn't best for me?

For those who struggle with read, we suggest listening to Scripture. What is most important is that you are getting time with God's Word. You can listen online at www.bible.com or download The Bible App Free + Audio on your phone.

Why are there only 6 readings a week?

Many people will choose to not read on Sundays or on the day they are meeting with their partner. We also know that we all sometimes miss a day, and having a "grace-day" each week helps us not fall behind.

Getting the most out of your reading

While reading the Bible is good, sometimes we all need a little guidance to get the most out of our time. The most important thing we can do is make sure we are praying while reading. We aren't just reading to say we did it, we want to hear from God, so ask Him to speak to you, and after reading talk to Him some more about how you are going to live in light of what you've read. Here are some suggested questions to ask after you've read the passage:

- What is happening in the passage? (who, what, when, why, how)
- What did you like about this passage? What did you find challenging in it?
- What does this passage tell you about God? (Consider how you see the Father, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit)
- What does this passage tell you about people/yourself?
- In light of this passage, what might the Spirit be calling you to do? Who is the Spirit calling you to share this with?

A guide for meeting with your partner

We meet together to share what we are learning, but also how we are struggling. Our goal is to help one another through the Gospel. Challenge one another, but also encourage one another, and definitely pray for one another.

Pray – Ask that God would use your time to bring encouragement to you both.

Looking Back – Share with one another about this last week. How did your commitments go? In what ways do you need encouragement? Praise God together for His faithfulness.

Looking Up – In light of what you read this week, what have you been learning about God? What new truths are you discovering? What promises are bringing you comfort?

Looking In – In light of what you read this week, what have you been learning about yourself? What lies are you uncovering? What encouragement have you been seeing? Challenge each other to go deeper as necessary!

Looking Forward – In light of what you read this week, how is God calling you to obedience? Who is God calling you to share His truth with? Commit to these things! Challenge one another to boldly follow Jesus.

Pray – Pray for each other, that you would follow Jesus more closely, and that He would help you as you seek to keep these commitments in the week ahead.

Discipleship Reading Plan 6

Taking the Gospel to Heart, to Annapolis, and to the World

Why Read Scripture?

Each of us are called to be a follower of Jesus, to trust him, obey Him and live like Him. But how can we do that, unless we hear from Him? The Discipleship Reading Plan is designed to help us to read the Bible because it is the Word of God and in it we see how to live out our calling of following Jesus. As we read, we pray that the Spirit of God will help us understand and obey. Then we share with one another what we are learning and how we are being challenged, so we can encourage and pray for each other as well. As we begin this 10-week journey, share with your partner one way you hope to see the Word of God and the Spirit of God change you in these 10 weeks.

What am I Reading?

The Bible is an incredible book, written by dozens of people over thousands of years, all telling one story of God's love for His people. In each plan you will be reading from several books of the Bible. Here is an overview of the types of books in the Bible.

Old Testament History - The first 17 books of the Bible (Genesis-Esther) tell the story of how God created the world and his interaction with his people specifically the nation of Israel. These books mostly tell us what happened.

Old Testament Writings - The middle 5 books (Job-Song of Solomon) tell us how people responded to what was happening. These books include prayers, songs, and "wise sayings" from the people.
